

WOMEN MUST BE HOME AT 12

Midnight the Limit for Maids Who Love
the Moon.

When Justice Andrews, of the Supreme Court, decided that Miss Florence Abel, of 435 Fifth avenue, was entitled to be admitted to her apartment at any time from 7 o'clock in the morning until midnight, and that her landlord, Jacob A. Andrus, was compelled to grant her this service, he established a precedent for women of New York.

Until Justice Andrews so defined "reasonable hours" for women, there had been no law upon the subject. Miss Abel, a dressmaker, leased two rooms at 435 Fifth avenue, from Andrus. She was to have access to the building for business purposes from 7 A. M. to 10 P. M. She was to have the right to reside in her rooms and to have the right of entry at all reasonable hours.

There was the hitch occurred. Landlord Andrus interpreted the words "reasonable hours" to mean not later than 10 P. M. according to the tenant, while she gave the clause more liberal construction, naming midnight, or at least 11:30 at night, as a time limit for admission.

The disagreement that followed resulted in litigation on her part to compel the flatly-headed landlord to either give her a key or to be prepared to have the front door opened for her whenever she rang.

In her suit asking for a key and $1,000 damages from her landlord, Miss Abel set forth that on November 21 she had been put to great inconvenience because of her landlord. Once, she said, she went to the theatre, found her door locked on her return and was compelled to stay all night at a hotel. Again she went to dine with a friend and had to stand on the stoop an hour before she was let in.

INEXPENSIVE

JEWELRY NOVELTIES.

A. Frankfield & Co.'s Holiday Display Attracts Crowds.

In the busiest jewelry establishment on New York's busiest street can be seen a collection of the rarest and most precious stones, set and unset, second to none in this city. The firm referred to, A. Frankfield & Co., of 52 West Fourteenth street, are noted for the excellent quality of their diamonds, sapphires, rubies, pearls, diamond brooches, pendants, diamond-studded watches, etc. But do not suppose for a moment that they carry only the higher-priced articles. With excellent taste they have secured an assortment of handy and appropriate novelties, gifts, moderate priced and varied enough to suit the most exacting. Among these are cigar cases, match cases, cigarette cases, silver, brass, chain purses, manicure cases, etc. The display is so arranged that every one, having been made from this year's patterns, cannot be approached at the prices asked. At the same time, to spare it will pay you to look at their display of Brazilian onyx, clove, carnelians, and ornaments in the show windows. These were imported directly from the Paris Exposition, and are an interesting study. Until Christmas, for the convenience of patrons who cannot call during the day, the store will be kept open evenings.

PRETTY TRIPLETS TO DANCE AT WALDORF-ASTORIA BALL.

THE CRYDER TRIPLETS AT THE AGE OF FIFTEEN.

Misses Cryder Make Their Debut in the Gay Set —Resemble One Another in Face, Feature, Form, and Are the Prettiest Triplets in New York.

The announcement that three beautiful young ladies, just turned eighteen, are to make their debut tonight at the grand assembly ball at the Waldorf-Astoria is enough to cause a flutter of excitement, but when it is known that the three exactly resemble one another, why then it is a social sensation.

The young ladies have become very sensitive. They have refused to have their photographs taken and seldom go out on the street with one another. Last night they were introduced to society at a dinner given by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cryder, at their home, 41 West Ninth street, in honor of their eighteenth birthday, Dec. 1.

Tonight they will make their formal debut at the Waldorf-Astoria. From their birth, in this city, these three sisters have been talked about and admired. Their father, Duncan Cryder, is a New Yorker, a successful man in business and one whose host of friends belong to the best set. Their mother was Miss Ogden, niece of Mrs. Shiloh, of Louisiana, and cousin of the late August Belmont. The incident of triple birth to such parents necessarily attracted attention in and out of society.

The sisters are as alike in physique as in face and dress. So that friends may distinguish them they wear different colored ribbons. Above the average height of their sex, willowy and graceful, with eyes of the same color, and maintaining the same, sweet, always perfect harmony one with the others, they quickly attract attention.

Mr. Cryder said today that when one of them came upon him suddenly he had to study her for a moment to make sure which one it was. The young women were educated in Europe and a part of their education consisted in studying snap-shot artists. Although one of the latter succeeded in "getting" them as they posed on the beach at Southampton two years ago, which only intensified their dislike for artists.

Hampered by Ill Health

Disease defeats the purposes of men, and makes havoc of their fondest hopes. How quickly courage and energy disappear! Great enterprises showing every probability of accomplishment take on the sallow hue of ruin when overtaken by Nature breaks down. Look around among your immediate friends. How many of them have missed their greatest opportunities through lack of physical and mental energy! The men would not be warned! They traded on their strength and took no precaution when there had been at hand the surest help for all such in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. The truth about this great discovery of Dr. Greene should be made known to all men.

Dr. Greene's Nervura for the Blood and Nerves

These statements of the influence of ill health on worldly success are not overdrawn, neither are the statements concerning the prompt and positive aid which Dr. Greene's Nervura is to the weak and sickly. The grumbling, surly merchant makes little headway. It is bright words and cheerful ways that bring success, and these things are impossible when the system is run down and unstrung. Don't wait until you are forced to the wall. Build up your physical and nervous strength with Dr. Greene's Nervura. The sick and discouraged find it gives them strength and determination. The nervous and irritated find in its soothing elements calmness and cheer.

Mr. F. P. Dearth, Woodville, N. H., says:

"About a year and a half ago I was taken sick and was ailing for a long time. I had a stomach trouble and I was not able to work much for about a year. I employed a doctor for a year, who did not seem to hit my case. I was weak and the slightest exertion wearied me. I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and of the wonderful results on other people, and I resolved to try it, and from the results I can say nothing but good for it. I have not been as well in years as I am since taking Dr. Greene's Nervura. I have heard and known of wonderful cures by Nervura, and I cheerfully recommend it to all."

STORE OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL CHRISTMAS.

THE BEST IN FINE GROCERIES

is always to be found in our stores, and this embraces all the staples as well as the choicest of table luxuries. Bread, the staff of life, is the one staple of all others which should be perfection, but which perhaps is the most uncertain, if one is to judge from the quality of the bread sold by a large majority of bakers and grocers.

THE BEST IN FINE BREAD

is to be found in all of our local stores. Our bread is perfection, if perfection in bread is possible, as every loaf contains the choicest grade of flour and is baked by the most modern methods. Cleanliness—absolute cleanliness—however, is the strong point we advance in favor of these goods.
